Jesus chose a bunch of very ordinary, occasionally awkward, occasionally argumentative people. He didn't wait for them to get polished before He called them.

A man in a light blue suit, white shirt, and blue tie stands against a dark, textured background. He has his eyes closed and his right hand raised in a gesture of prayer or surrender. A glowing white halo is positioned above his head. A dark grey rectangular box with a small downward-pointing triangle at its bottom center is overlaid at the bottom of the image.
